Description :

Alcohol Harms (Product Code: SCL330/0185) is a laminated wall chart used to teach the damage alcohol can do to the human body, in school biology, health and life-skills classrooms. Teachers mount the 70 cm x 100 cm chart during lessons on substance awareness and healthy living, where a large shared visual helps open the discussion, and it pairs naturally with othertitles in a biology chart set for schools. It is made by Jain Scientific Equipments Pvt Ltd (ScienceLab), an OEM scientific instruments manufacturer in India, at its own factory in Ambala.

What Is the Alcohol Harms Chart Used For?

Alcohol is absorbed into the bloodstream and broken down mainly by the liver, and heavy or long-term drinking can damage the liver, brain, heart and stomach. Teachers use the chart to explain these effects, together with short-term risks such as slowed reactions and poor judgement that can lead to accidents.

The chart supports classroom discussion on peer pressure, making safe choices and where young people can get help. Biology teachers can link it to lessons on the digestive and nervous systems, while health-education staff use it during awareness weeks and school assemblies.

OEM Manufacturer
