What Are Dummy Currency Notes Used For?

The classic activity is a class shop: items get price labels, one child pays with the notes and another checks the amount and gives change. Children soon discover there are several ways to make the same amount, and comparing those combinations builds addition, subtraction and mental arithmetic in a setting they recognise from real life.

Start with small amounts and a few denominations, then widen the range as confidence grows. Keeping the notes sorted by denomination in trays or envelopes speeds up setting out and tidying away. Children enjoy role-play with realistic notes, and the set pairs naturally with other educational lab equipment in India for early number work.

Supplier

Jain Scientific Equipments Private Limited, which trades as ScienceLab, supplies Dummy Currency Notes from Ambala, Haryana, India. The company sources the set and handles quotations, order coordination and dispatch for schools, colleges, institutions and dealers across India and international markets, so money resources can be ordered together with other maths lab items.
