What Is the Premium Lab Coat Used For?

A lab coat is the basic protective layer in most teaching and testing labs: it keeps reagents, stains and dust off personal clothing and stays behind when the wearer leaves the lab. The Lab Coat Premium is aimed at people who wear a coat all day, such as lab assistants, demonstrators and research staff, where a blended fabric copes well with frequent washing.

Check the 103 cm length and 61 cm arm length against your wearers before ordering. Keep the coat fully buttoned and the sleeves down over the wrists during practicals, and use the breast pocket for pens and ID so nothing rests on the bench. Colleges adding coats to a school lab equipment bulk supply order can issue the same model to every department.
